Cash-In-Transit Risk Management Services

Reducing CIT Risk

Lowers & Associates (L&A) has been widely recognized as a leader in the field of Cash-In-Transit (CIT) security and risk mitigation since 1980. Working on behalf of insurers and armored car companies, L&A has established itself as the go-to partner in this critical area of the financial services market.

L&A bases its approach on evaluation, consultation, and hands-on service, which has developed into distinct programs that dovetail into a collaborative global risk mitigation platform. L&A's core services include:

Risk Assessment | Audit | Investigation | Compliance

Risk Assessment

Operational assessment at the street-level is the first step in identifying and mitigating CIT risk. L&A combines a structured criteria set built upon industry best practices, with experience-based flexibility that takes into consideration the unique operational challenges faced by each company. The result is an in-depth assessment report that quantifies operational risks and provides detailed recommendations to mitigate those risks.

The second step is internal policy compliance assessment. Many CIT companies have risk mitigation policies in place, but don't have the internal resources or expertise to evaluate compliance levels and identify deficiencies. L&A assesses internal compliance through a review process that provides a neutral expert evaluation for companies that already have a proven and aggressive risk mitigation program in place. A formal report is developed and presented to illustrate areas in which compliance is sufficient, and areas in which deficiencies need to be addressed.

Consultation

Risk and compliance assessments provide a baseline view for a specific point in time. Business continuity strategic consultation takes risk mitigation to the next level by developing:

- Effective policies that take into consideration current circumstances and potential for future regulation and compliance requirements changes.
- Operational procedures that combine established industry best practices with specific standards that are dictated by an individual company's unique requirements.
- Managerial risk mitigation strategies and tactics that take into consideration that company's overall goals and objectives.

Consultation of this nature is grounded in L&A's extensive, multi-national experience in serving the CIT industry. Through partnership with L&A, CIT companies around the world have been able to reduce losses well beyond the direct costs of assessment and implementation.
